MA GOVERNANCE, LEADERSHIP & DEMOCRACY STUDIES 2018 2019

Professor João Carlos Espada

Senior Tutor for Master's Degree in GLDS
Director of the Institute for Political Studies (IEP)

MESSAGE FROM THE PROGRAM DIRECTOR

"This new MA program not only aims at combining a strong teaching dimension with high-quality research. It also intends to provide permanent forum for scholars and practitioners working in the field of democracy. This third dimension is perhaps the most innovative and the one that can best help define the whole project.

We will provide students with basic knowledge of the field through a standard course-based two-semester program. We will add to that a very flexible program of seminars, lectures, workshops and debates involving scholars and practitioners from all over the world. We hope that from this interaction there will emerge new research projects that will attract some of our best students - who will come from overseas as well."

"As an MA student at the IEP, I was able to understand that the University is more than the place where I can graduate. It can be a place of learning, in the broader sense of the word. In the IEP, learning happens everywhere, in many different ways: in classes and in the hallways, with colleagues and Professors, from seminars and from Great Books, in a evolving, lively and unique academic environment."

MARIA MONTEIRO, MA CLASS OF 2017

"With its vibrant intellectual environment, stimulating seminars, captivating discussions and engagement with networks of visiting international scholars, high-level policy-makers and diplomats, the IEP has been a great and truly enriching academic experience. For all that, it has marked an important turning point in my life, and will always be the place I like to come back and feel like at home."

DACE VINOVSKA, MA CLASS 2013

"As a student of the MA Program in Governance, Leadership and Democracy Studies I have experienced a vibrant international environment with a very flexible program of lectures and seminars presented by high quality speakers."
