

Sandra Dzenis holds a PhD in Political Economy from King's College London (2020), an MA in International Business Economics from the University of East Anglia (2011) and a Magister (BA & MA) in Political Science from the University of Bonn (2010).

Sandra's main area of expertise is Politics, Philosophy and Economics (PPE). She currently works on the politics of speech, applying methods in political theory, rational choice, and political economy to the study of speech policies and attitudes in liberal societies. As teaching assistant, she taught Introduction to Political Theory and Political Economy: Concepts and Issues at King's College London. Sandra is also a Research Affiliate in the Department of Political Economy at King's College London, where she is a member of the PPE research group.

Sandra has been an Adam Smith fellow at the Mercatus Center of George Mason University and a fellow at the Institute for Humane Studies. She was also the recipient of the Charles Koch Foundation PhD dissertation grant. Her most recent work has appeared in the journal Philosophia.

Publications:

Dzenis, Sandra, & Faria, Filipe N. (2020). Political correctness: the twofold protection of liberalism. Philosophia, 48, 95-114.