

Inês Domingos is an economist based in Lisbon and a teaching assistant at Católica School of Business and Economics. She is an economic adviser to the President of the Republic. Previously, Inês was a Member of Parliament (2015-2019) where she developed work in the Finance and Budget and the European Affairs Committees. Inês worked in the city of London as an Economic analyst in the Economic Research departments of Morgan Stanley and Goldman Sachs. Inês holds an MSc in Economics from University College London and a BA in Economics from Université Catholique de Louvain. Inês is currently a PhD candidate in International Relations and Political Science at Instituto de Estudos Políticos of Universidade Católica.