Presentation

The Atlantic Conferences are a joint initiative of the Presidency of the Regional Government of Madeira, the City Council of Câmara de Lobos and the Institute for Political Studies of the Universidade Catolica Portuguesa. They will take place on the 27th and 28th of January 2023, at the Madeira Press Museum, in the municipality of Câmara de Lobos.

The Atlantic Conferences are part of the celebration of Winston Churchill's visit to Madeira, with his wife Clementine. During his brief stay on the island, Churchill devoted part of his time to one of his greatest passions: painting. In January 1950, he travelled to Câmara de Lobos, seven kilometers west of Funchal, in a Leacock family Rolls Royce. In a corner, at the entrance to the village, he set up his easel and canvas, sat down and painted the bay and the islet. Photographer Raul Perestrelo immortalized the moment and, currently, the place is designated as Miradouro Winston Churchill.

By celebrating Churchill's visit to Madeira, the Atlantic Conferences aim to revisit the meaning of his commitment to the Western and European tradition of freedom under the law, which dates back to Athens, Rome and Jerusalem; it is also its purpose to revisit – hoping to better understand – the decisive role that Churchill attributed to the Atlantic Alliance and the maritime tradition of liberty among English-speaking peoples in the defense of the West.

By a happy coincidence, in this first edition of the Atlantic Conferences, it will be a pleasure to also include the celebration of the 650th anniversary of the Anglo-Portuguese Alliance – the oldest alliance in the world.

Allen Packwood

Allen Packwood BA, MPhil (Cantab), is a Fellow of Churchill College at the University of Cambridge, the Director of the Churchill Archives Centre, and a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society. He was awarded an OBE for services to archives and scholarship in the 2016 Queen's Birthday Honours. His book, How Churchill Waged War, was published by Pen & Sword in 2018.

The Churchill Archives Centre is located in the grounds of Churchill College, and is home to the papers of Sir Winston Churchill, Baroness Thatcher, Sir John Major and almost seven hundred of their contemporaries: politicians, diplomats, civil servants, military leaders and scientists of the modern era. It is still collecting. Allen likes to joke that it is the equivalent of four American Presidential Libraries!

Edward is particularly interested in the history and role of British families in the economic development of Portugal as well military history. He is a churchwarden of St. George's Anglican Church in Lisbon, founded in the 1600's, and an administrator of the adjacent British Cemetery, founded in 1717.
